

Understanding Types and Development Processes of Family

Radhika Kapur

Abstract: The main objective of this research paper is to acquire an understanding of the types and development processes of the family. In India, there are urban and rural communities throughout the country. In both communities, families are of two types: nuclear and joint. Family members are required to undertake various job duties, which facilitate the effective growth and development of the family. Furthermore, they need to augment their information with multiple methodologies and procedures. These are complicated and manageable. Individuals are required to work collaboratively and integrate their efforts to implement methods and procedures efficiently. One of the crucial aspects that needs to be taken into account is that individuals must develop the traits of morality, ethics, diligence, and resourcefulness. These facilitate the carrying out of all tasks and activities in a satisfactory manner and generate the desired outcomes. Furthermore, one will be able to meet the expectations of other family members. Therefore, it can be stated that one will render a significant contribution in promoting the well-being and goodwill of their families, provided job duties are carried out in an efficacious manner. The main concepts considered in this research paper are understanding the meaning and significance of types and development processes within families, the factors that lead to these development processes, and the advantages of encouraging them.

Keywords: Abilities, Family, Development Processes, Individuals, Job Duties, Methodologies, Skills, Types

I. INTRODUCTION

The basic unit of social structure consists of two primary links of kinship. These are parenthood and siblings. In simple terms, these are referred to as combinations and permutations of these relationships. Within the Indian context, when discussing family classification, two types of families are considered: nuclear and joint. The nuclear family comprises a husband, wife, and their unmarried children. On the other hand, joint families comprise two or more atomic families residing under the same roof. It encompasses multiple relationships, including those between grandparents, parents, children, siblings, aunts, uncles, cousins, and in-laws. The joint family is typically referred to as the extended family.

The patrilineal extended family is based on the father-son relationship, whereas the matrilineal extended family is based on the mother-daughter relationship (Chapter 5, n.d., [1]). The extended family may also be extended horizontally to include a group of two or more brothers, their wives and children. The horizontally extended family is known as the fraternal or collateral family. Therefore, in all communities throughout the country, it is essential to gain a comprehensive understanding of all types of families.

Before acquiring an in-depth understanding of the development processes within the family, it is essential to understand the concept of developmental processes. The developmental process refers to the systematic and structured progression that occurs. The developmental processes of the family denote that the elements of the family life form a structure (Unit 6, n.d., [5]). In the formation of the structure, it is necessary to augment one's knowledge and understanding in terms of different types of methodologies and procedures. It relates to the processes of fission and fusion, occurring in the residential and compositional aspects of family life. Individuals from all communities, categories, and socioeconomic backgrounds share a primary goal of improving their overall quality of life. To achieve this goal, individuals often relocate to distant places, regions, and even countries. Therefore, it is well understood that developmental processes occur among families when they relocate to a distant area to enhance their career prospects.

A. Understanding the Meaning and Significance of Types and Development Processes of the Family

Within homes, particularly in nuclear and joint families, there are often instances of conflicting situations and disagreements among family members. These may be experienced in a major or minor form. These issues need to be resolved to enhance the pleasantness of language and relationships. All family members, regardless of their age or gender, are required to be well-versed in peaceful conflict resolution methods. Furthermore, they are required to communicate effectively with each other and treat others with respect and courtesy. Individuals are required to be well-versed in communication ethics, including using polite language and respectful words, treating each other with respect and courtesy, maintaining eye contact when communicating face-to-face, continually improving their skills and abilities, and possessing an approachable nature and an amiable attitude. When verbal communication takes place, individuals are required to enhance their listening skills.

As a consequence of acknowledging and implementing communication ethics, individuals will be able to strengthen amiability in their terms and relationships. In Manuscript received on 10 May 2023 | Revised Manuscript received on 12 August 2023 | Manuscript Accepted on 15 September 2023 | Manuscript published on 30 December 2023.

* Correspondence Author (s)

Dr. Radhika Kapur*, Pedagogy and Organizational Culture in Nursery Schools, Delhi University, New Delhi, India. E-mail: radhikakapur2004@hotmail.com

© The Authors. Published by Lattice Science Publication (LSP). This is an open access article under the CC-BY-NC-ND license (<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/>)

this manner, all family members will make an essential contribution to the development. Furthermore, there will be reinforcement of cordiality and pleasantness within the home environmental conditions. Therefore, individuals acquire an understanding of the meaning and significance of the types and development processes of the family when their communication skills and interactive abilities are honed. Throughout the lives of individuals, regardless of their community, category, or socio-economic background, they are required to enhance their skills and abilities. The various types of skills include communication skills, decision-making skills, analytical skills, problem-solving skills, critical thinking skills, intellectual skills, time management skills, technical skills, creative skills, personal skills, presentation skills, and professional skills. On the other hand, abilities are, management, administration, controlling, organizing, planning, leading, directing, convincing, persuading, emotional intelligence, systems thinking, possessing the abilities to work under stress, putting in efforts to one's best abilities, coping with various types of problems and challenging situations in a satisfactory manner and carrying out various job duties in an effective and disciplined manner. These skills and abilities are put into operation in a well-ordered and methodical manner within the personal and professional lives of the individuals. The reason is that they will be able to engage in different types of tasks and activities that facilitate the effective growth and development of individuals. One of the significant benefits experienced is that individuals will carry out their job duties and responsibilities in a more time-efficient and effective manner. As a consequence of utilising their competencies and abilities, individuals will be able to lead the development of their families. Therefore, one can acquire an efficient understanding of the meaning and significance of types and development processes of families when honing different types of skills and abilities.

All members, regardless of age or gender, are required to be well-versed in methods that facilitate creating an amiable and pleasant environment within homes. Some of these are, implementing effective communication processes; inculcating the traits of morality and ethics; implementing the qualities of diligence, resourcefulness and conscientiousness; augmenting skills and abilities; implementing analytical and critical-thinking skills; implementing time-management skills; coping with various types of problems and challenging situations in an adequate manner; promoting a typical mind-set; generating information in terms of job duties and responsibilities; augmenting information in terms of methods and approaches and carrying out all tasks and activities in a well-ordered manner. Individuals are required to ensure that all procedures are implemented effectively and efficiently. One of the critical aspects is the need to emphasise promoting family well-being. As a consequence of acknowledging all these methods, mutual understanding will be developed among individuals. In this manner, all family members will make an essential contribution to the development. Furthermore, there will be reinforcement of cordiality and pleasantness within the home environmental conditions. Therefore, an understanding of the meaning and significance of types and development processes of families is acquired when one generates information regarding essential factors.

B. Factors Leading to Development Processes within Families

Individuals differ from one another in various factors, including caste, creed, race, religion, ethnicity, gender, age group, culture, occupation, personality traits, and socioeconomic background. Despite these differences, they share a primary goal of enhancing the overall quality of life. Hence, they are required to engage in various tasks and activities, which will facilitate the promotion of well-being and goodwill among families and communities. In other words, emphasis is put upon development processes within families (The Importance of Corporate Social Responsibility, 2013, [4]). Individuals are required to be well-versed in various methodologies and approaches that facilitate the enhancement of development processes within families. Individuals from all communities, categories, and socio-economic backgrounds are required to be well-informed about the factors leading to development processes within families. These must be implemented in a well-ordered and disciplined manner. These are stated as follows:

II. ACQUIRING EDUCATION

Individuals from all communities, categories, and socio-economic backgrounds have recognised the meaning and significance of education. They have formed the viewpoint that education is not only an instrument that imparts information in terms of academic subjects and lesson plans, but also in various ways that are vital in developing into moral and ethical human beings. Furthermore, individuals will emerge as productive citizens of the country. In some cases, individuals acquire education while living with their family members, whereas in other cases, they migrate to different regions, states, or countries. Within rural communities, the education system is not well-developed, so individuals often transfer to urban communities to enrol in educational institutions. Through augmenting information in various subjects, concepts, competencies, and abilities, individuals are adequately preparing themselves for their future endeavours. Furthermore, they are contributing efficiently to sustain their living conditions satisfactorily. In this manner, they are making an essential contribution to the development of their families. Therefore, acquiring education is regarded as one of the indispensable factors that lead to development within families.

A. Getting Engaged in Employment Opportunities

Securing employment opportunities is regarded as one of the primary goals of individuals from all communities, categories, and socio-economic backgrounds. Individuals are required to engage in employment opportunities that are suitable for them. Furthermore, they will be able to contribute efficiently to improving their financial positions. Financial resources are regarded as vital, as they are necessary for bringing about improvements in the family system and overall standards of living. Hence, upon completing education or during pursuing it, individuals become engaged in employment opportunities with the primary objective of accumulating financial resources. As a consequence, they will make an essential contribution to purchasing various items, acquiring services from service providers and domestic helpers, fulfilling different types of needs and requirements, and ultimately leading to an improvement in one's overall standards of living. By possessing a sufficient amount of financial resources, individuals can contribute efficiently to transformations in various factors. In this manner, individuals are making an essential contribution to the development of their families. Therefore, getting engaged in employment opportunities is one of the significant factors leading to development processes within families.

B. Promoting Enhancement of Career Prospects

Promoting career enhancement is regarded as one of the primary goals of individuals from all communities, categories, and socio-economic backgrounds. Individuals are required to enrol in educational institutions at all levels to pursue their education. Through the acquisition of good-quality education, individuals are preparing themselves to enhance their career prospects. They are required to engage in employment opportunities that are suitable for them. Individuals make a selection of various fields, such as architecture, education, administration, management, law, science, technology, engineering, journalism, and so forth. These facilitate the promotion of career enhancement, provided that individuals perform their job duties in a well-organised and satisfactory manner. In the present era, individuals are required to augment their knowledge through various modern, scientific, and innovative methods and materials. As a consequence, individuals will carry out their job duties and responsibilities in an efficient manner. As a result of having promising and thriving careers, individuals are making a significant contribution to the development of their families. Therefore, promoting the enhancement of career prospects is a crucial factor in driving development processes within families.

C. Transferring to Other Places

Bringing about improvements in overall standards of living is regarded as one of the primary goals of individuals from all communities, categories, and socio-economic backgrounds. To achieve this goal, they must acquire a high-quality education and pursue employment opportunities that align with their skills and interests. Hence, they migrate to other regions, states, or countries. In this manner, these individuals are not only contributing efficiently to improvements in overall standards of living, but they are also enhancing their career prospects. In the present era, individuals are required to augment their knowledge and understanding through various modern, scientific, and innovative methods and materials. As a consequence, individuals will carry out their job duties and responsibilities in an efficient manner. As a consequence of having good and thriving career prospects, individuals are making an essential contribution to the development of their families. The main reason is that they can accumulate financial resources to promote the well-being and goodwill of their families and communities. Furthermore, they can fulfil all types of needs and requirements. Therefore, relocating to other places is a significant factor contributing to the development processes within families.

D. Augmenting Competencies and Abilities

Throughout the lives of individuals, regardless of their community, category, or socio-economic background, they are required to enhance their competencies and abilities. These are, management, administration, controlling, organizing, planning, leading, directing, convincing, persuading, emotional intelligence, systems thinking, possessing the abilities to work under stress, putting in efforts to one's best abilities, coping with various types of problems and challenging situations in a satisfactory manner and carrying out various job duties in an efficient and well-ordered manner. These competencies and abilities are put into operation in a well-ordered and disciplined manner within the personal and professional lives of the individuals. The reason is that they will be able to engage in different types of tasks and activities that facilitate the effective growth and development of individuals. One of the significant benefits experienced is that individuals will carry out their job duties and responsibilities in a more time-efficient and effective manner. As a consequence of utilising their competencies and abilities, individuals will be able to lead the development of their families. Therefore, augmenting competencies and abilities is a noteworthy factor leading to development processes within families.

E. Promoting Women's Empowerment

In some of the rural households, women and girls are being discriminated against in terms of education and employment opportunities. The primary reason is that they are trained in managing household responsibilities and caring for the needs and requirements of family members; hence, they contribute efficiently to promoting the well-being of their families. Individuals in the present day are realising that girls and women can also make a significant contribution to promoting community well-being.

In this manner, they are encouraging their girls to enrol in educational institutions and pursue employment opportunities. In this manner, they are making an essential contribution to promoting women's empowerment. Furthermore, women are allowed to make decisions independently. In addition, they are contributing efficiently in augmenting competencies, abilities and aptitude. In this manner, they are rendering an essential contribution to promoting the enrichment of one's career prospects. Hence, it is well understood that they are acquiring opportunities for empowerment. As a consequence of providing equal rights and opportunities to girls compared to their male counterparts, individuals will lead to the development of their families. Therefore, promoting women's empowerment is a worthwhile factor in development processes within families.

III. MANAGING RESOURCES

Individuals from all communities, categories, and socio-economic backgrounds are required to manage resources effectively. The different types of resources are financial, technical, material and information resources. Financial resources refer to the monetary resources. These are required to be utilised in making purchases of various items, fulfilling different types of needs and requirements, and improving the overall standards of living. Technical resources encompass a wide range of technologies, including computers, laptops, iPads, scanners, printers, photocopiers, and audio-visual aids, among others. Material resources are tools, devices, machinery, apparatus and equipment. Information resources encompass a wide range of materials, including books, articles, reports, projects, newspapers, magazines, and other print and digital reading materials, as well as the internet. The internet is regarded as one of the prominent sources that provide information on all subjects and concepts. Furthermore, individuals will obtain answers to all types of questions and have their doubts clarified. These resources must be managed effectively to facilitate the development of oneself and one's family members. One of the crucial aspects that needs to be taken into account is preventing waste. Therefore, managing resources is a significant factor in the development processes within families.

A. Providing Infrastructure, Amenities and Facilities

It is of utmost significance to make provision for infrastructure, amenities and facilities. These include power supplies, water supplies, clean drinking water, restrooms, heating and cooling equipment tailored to local weather conditions, furniture, communication networks, technologies, internet access, and other essential amenities. These need to be utilised satisfactorily to promote the enhancement of the overall standards of living. As a consequence, individuals will not only feel comfortable within their home environmental conditions, but they will also contribute efficiently, leading to increased concentration and motivation levels. The management of financial, technical, material, and information resources is regarded as of utmost significance in providing adequate infrastructure, amenities, and facilities. As a consequence of making provision of infrastructure, amenities and facilities, the individuals will lead to the development of their families (Crowther & Aras, 2008, [2]). The main reason is that they will incur feelings of pleasure and contentment. In this manner, they will lead to an increase in enthusiasm levels towards implementing different types of tasks and activities. Therefore, providing infrastructure, amenities, and facilities is a favourable factor that leads to development processes within families.

B. Developing Mutual Understanding with Family Members

Within homes, particularly in nuclear and joint families, there are often instances of conflicting situations and disagreements among family members. These may be experienced in a major or minor form. These issues need to be resolved to enhance the pleasantness of language and relationships. All family members, regardless of their age or gender, are required to be well-versed in peaceful conflict resolution methods. Furthermore, they are required to communicate effectively with each other and treat others with respect and courtesy. Individuals are required to be well-versed in communication ethics, including using polite language and decent words, treating each other with respect and courtesy, maintaining eye contact when communicating face-to-face, augmenting skills and abilities, and possessing an approachable nature and an amiable attitude. As a consequence of acknowledging all these factors, mutual understanding will be developed among individuals. In this manner, all family members will make an essential contribution to the development. Furthermore, there will be reinforcement of cordiality and pleasantness within the home environmental conditions. Therefore, developing mutual understanding with family members is a crucial factor in the development processes within families.

C. Creating an Amiable and Pleasant Environment within Homes

All members, regardless of age or gender, are required to be well-versed in methods that facilitate creating an amiable and pleasant environment within homes. Some of these are, implementing effective communication processes; inculcating the traits of morality and ethics; implementing the traits of diligence, resourcefulness and conscientiousness; augmenting skills and abilities; implementing analytical and critical-thinking skills; implementing time-management skills; coping with various types of problems and challenging situations in an adequate manner; promoting a typical mind-set; generating information in terms of job duties and responsibilities; augmenting information in terms of methods and approaches and carrying out all tasks and activities in a well-ordered manner. Individuals are required to ensure that all methods are implemented positively. As a consequence of acknowledging all these methods, mutual understanding will be developed among individuals.

In this manner, all family members will make an essential contribution to the development. Furthermore, there will be reinforcement of cordiality and pleasantness within the home environmental conditions. Therefore, creating an amiable and pleasant environment within homes is a valuable factor that facilitates development processes within families.

D. Advantages of Encouraging Development Processes within Families

In all communities throughout the country, family members are wholeheartedly committed to encouraging development processes within their families. The development processes are regarded as key in bringing about transformations in the overall quality of life for individuals (Li, Amlani, & Bertels, 2014, [3]). In other words, encouraging development processes has proven advantageous to individuals on a comprehensive basis. The advantages include promoting a typical mindset, eliciting feelings of pleasure and contentment, developing motivation and concentration levels towards job duties, utilising pioneering methods and materials, leading to the upgradation of overall personality traits, and bringing about improvements in one's overall quality of life. These are stated as follows:

E. Promoting a Normal Mindset

Individuals can promote a typical mindset when they implement various methodologies and procedures that facilitate family development. It is understood that individuals get overwhelmed by the psychological problems of anger, stress, anxiety, frustration and depression. These are experienced in a major or minor form. Hence, it is understood that when individuals are successful in their lives, they will experience feelings of pleasure and contentment. As a consequence, they will render a significant contribution to managing various types of psychological problems effectively. Furthermore, these will be prevented from giving rise to impediments during the implementation of job duties and from promoting enrichment. As a consequence, individuals will contribute efficiently in promoting a typical mindset. Therefore, it is understood on a comprehensive basis that promoting a typical mindset is regarded as one of the indispensable advantages of encouraging development processes within families.

F. Incurs the Feelings of Pleasure and Contentment

From the stage of early childhood, throughout their lives, individuals need to form positive views on various factors. Furthermore, they are required to maintain cordial and amiable relationships with family and community members. One of the crucial aspects that needs to be taken into account is that individuals must be well-versed in job duties and methodologies that need to be implemented efficiently. Hence, it is understood that when individuals are successful in their lives, they will experience feelings of pleasure and contentment. As a consequence, they will render a significant contribution to managing various types of psychological problems effectively. Furthermore, these need to be prevented from creating impediments during the implementation of multiple tasks. As a consequence, they will lead to effective growth and development. Therefore, it is well understood that experiencing feelings of pleasure and contentment is one of the significant advantages of encouraging development processes within families.

G. Developing Motivation and Concentration Levels towards Job Duties

Individuals in both personal and professional contexts carry out various types of job duties and responsibilities. It is comprehensively understood that individuals aspire to be successful in putting into operation all kinds of job duties and responsibilities. For this purpose, motivation and concentration levels towards job duties and responsibilities must be honed. As a consequence, the mindsets of individuals will be stimulated to put various tasks and activities into operation. In this manner, they are implementing their methodologies in a well-organised manner. Additionally, they will be able to cope with various types of problems and challenging situations in a suitable manner. As a consequence, individuals will be able to perform their job duties effectively, generate the desired outcomes, and meet the expectations of others. Therefore, it can be stated that developing motivation and concentration levels towards job duties is a significant advantage of encouraging development processes within families.

H. Utilizing Pioneering Methods and Materials

It is necessary for all individuals, irrespective of their occupations, to be well-versed in terms of job duties and responsibilities. These are put into operation by individuals in their personal and professional lives. It is comprehensively understood that individuals aspire to be successful in putting into operation all types of job duties and responsibilities. For this purpose, they are required to be well-informed about pioneering methods and materials. These are both complicated and manageable; they can be put into operation in a shorter amount of time or may be more time-consuming. They can be implemented independently or with help and support from others. These are graphs, charts, maps, pictures, images, tools, devices, machinery, equipment, apparatus and various types of technologies. It is necessary to acquire a thorough understanding of the concepts and engage in regular practice. As a consequence, individuals will do well in their job duties, generate desired outcomes and meet the expectations of other individuals. Therefore, utilizing pioneering methods and materials is a vital advantage of encouraging development processes within families.

I. Leading to Up-gradation of overall Personality Traits

Enhancing overall personality traits is a task that all individuals focus on, regardless of their age or gender.

As a consequence of leading to the development of families, individuals are augmenting their information in terms of factors that facilitate the upgradation of overall personality traits. These are, focusing on diet and nutrition; getting engaged in exercises and physical activities; practicing the techniques of yoga and meditation; obtaining medical check-ups on regular basis, particularly in cases of health problems and illnesses; being well-versed in terms of job duties and responsibilities; being well-equipped in terms of methodologies and procedures; putting in efforts to one's best abilities; possessing the capabilities to work under stress; depicting the traits of helpfulness and co-operation and possessing an approachable nature and an amiable attitude. As a consequence of acknowledging and implementing all these factors, individuals will be able to enhance their overall personality traits. Therefore, leading to the upgradation of overall personality traits is a crucial advantage of encouraging development processes within families.

J. Bringing about Improvements in One's Overall Quality of Life

Bringing about improvements in one's overall quality of life is a goal that all individuals strive for, irrespective of their age or gender. As a consequence of leading to development of families, the individuals are augmenting information in terms of factors, which are facilitating in achievement of this goal, i.e. making wise and productive decisions; being well-versed in terms of job duties and responsibilities; being well-equipped in terms of methodologies and procedures; utilizing modern, scientific and innovative methods and materials; taking out sufficient amount of time for all tasks and activities; putting in efforts to one's best abilities; possessing the capabilities to work under stress; forming an effective social circle; augmenting skills and abilities and promoting good health and well-being, physically and psychologically. As a consequence of acknowledging and implementing all these factors, individuals will be able to prepare themselves adequately to achieve this goal. Therefore, bringing about improvements in one's overall quality of life is a prominent advantage of encouraging development processes within families.

IV. CONCLUSION

In all communities throughout the country, it is essential to understand the types of families and the development processes within them. Factors leading to development processes within families are, acquiring education, getting engaged in employment opportunities, promoting enhancement of career prospects, transferring to other places, augmenting competencies and abilities, promoting women empowerment, managing resources, providing infrastructure, amenities and facilities, developing mutual understanding with family members and creating amiable and pleasant environment within homes. Advantages of encouraging development processes within families include promoting a positive mindset, fostering feelings of pleasure and contentment, developing motivation and concentration levels towards job duties, utilising innovative methods and materials, leading to the enhancement of overall personality traits, and bringing about improvements in one's overall quality of life. Ultimately, understanding the types and development processes within families will provide a clearer understanding of families and their dynamics.

DECLARATION STATEMENT

Funding	No, I did not receive.
Conflicts of Interest	No conflicts of interest to the best of my knowledge.
Ethical Approval and Consent to Participate	No, the article does not require ethical approval or consent to participate, as it presents evidence that is not subject to interpretation.
Availability of Data and Materials	Not relevant.
Authors Contributions	I am the sole author of this article.

REFERENCES

- Chapter 5. (n.d.). The Changing Trends. Retrieved October 11, 2023, from https://shodhganga.inflibnet.ac.in/bitstream/10603/22485/15/15_chapter5.pdf
- Crowther, D., & Aras, G. (2008). Corporate Social Responsibility. Retrieved October 11, 2023, from <http://mdos.si/Files/defining-corporate-social-responsibility.pdf>
- Li, J., Amlani, A., & Bertels, S. (2014). Community Engagement. A Getting Started Toolkit for Exploration and Development Companies. Retrieved October 11, 2017, from http://nbs.net/wp-content/uploads/NBS_Community-Engagement-Guide.pdf
- The Importance of Corporate Social Responsibility. (2013). Retrieved October 11, 2023, from <https://www.therightbank.com/sites/www.therightbank.com/files/file%20Business%20Resources/White%20Papers/Business%20Development/white-paper-importance-of-corporate-responsibility.pdf>
- Unit 6. (n.d.). Family and Its Types. Retrieved October 11, 2023 from egyankosh.ac.in

AUTHOR PROFILE

Dr. Radhika Kapur, I am a graduate from Loreto Convent and hold a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology from Jesus and Mary College. Master's of Business Administration from YMCA, New Delhi. Ph.D. from Delhi University. I have 15 years of experience in research and writing. I have written over 100 research papers and currently work as a librarian at the Delhi School of Journalism, University of Delhi.

Disclaimer/Publisher's Note: The statements, opinions and data contained in all publications are solely those of the individual author(s) and contributor(s) and not of the Lattice Science Publication (LSP)/ journal and/ or the editor(s). The Lattice Science Publication (LSP)/ journal and/or the editor(s) disclaim responsibility for any injury to people or property resulting from any ideas, methods, instructions or products referred to in the content.